

Student bulletin

Dear students

I hope you all enjoyed the bank holiday weekend. I am writing to you today as it was a bank holiday last Friday due to the VE celebrations. I hope you managed to take part in the commemorative events over the weekend.

I am sure many of you were watching the national speech by our Prime Minister, Boris Johnson, on Sunday evening. Whilst there was a lot of new information to take in, for now, there were no new significant changes for any of you in terms of a return to school. There may be some changes for students in year 10 at some point over the summer term, but for now I ask you to continue completing all of the work set by your teachers from home. As I have previously stated, if you are not completing the maximum amount of 5 hours a day, you will not receive a consequence. However, if you have not completed the minimum expectation of work, you will be receiving a pack of work personally delivered to your home address by me early next week.

You will have heard that it is now okay to leave your house to do exercise more than once per day. Please do remember to continue to socially distance if you choose to do this and do not meet up with your friends when leaving your home for exercise.

As always, I would like to share R3s for last week:
